

Multiple Access Communications Ltd

Multiple Access Communications Ltd is an independent consulting and product design company operating in the wireless telecommunications market. MAC Ltd develops hardware and software for wireless communications terminals, infrastructure and test products and has core competencies in the design of software radio products using FPGAs and DSPs. MAC Ltd serves an international client base from its offices in Southampton, England.
Please visit www.macltd.com